Southern and Western Productions.

Hon. W. D. Kelley, Congressman from Philadelphia, recently made a tour through the "West," during which he made several addresses to the people. He did not confine himself to the immediate issues of the political campaign, but took occasion to call their attention to the great subjects, which underlie all material and social welfare. The impression which Judge Kelley made in the West is attested by the favorable comments which the leading journals of that section made upon his speeches. He called the attention of the farmers to the fact that henceforth, instead of finding a market in the South for their grain, beef and other products, that section will in future not only supply its own wants, but moreover enter largely into competition with the West in supplying other markets. He endeavored to show his audiences, mainly composed of the agriculturalists of the West, the necessity of varying the resources and industrial movements of the country, and especially counseled them by the development of their mineral resources and the establishment of manufacture, to create a home market for their superabundant supplies of food. The extracts which we make from a speech delivered by Judge Kelley at Milwaukee will be found to contain matter of much interest. Indeed, the speech is one of the ablest defenses of protection which we have seen, and even those who do not agree with the policy it advocates, will find in it many suggestions worthy of their serious consideration:

The United States should be the first commercial power in the world. But she is not. She is the chief dependency of Great Britain, France and Belgium. With her extended seacoast, her unlimited [illegible] power, and as yet unexplored and universally diversified mineral resources—should be the leading manufacturing nation of the world; and that nation which manufactures more than it [illegible] in commerce. A nation that contents itself with producing bulky raw material has never yet attained commercial dignity. History names no such one. We are not in the position we should be—the leader of civilization of the world—because we have preferred that England should spin and weave our [illegible] and wool, [illegible] coal, limestone and iron are into implements for our use, and rails to lay over our limestone beds, our ore banks and coal mines. We are truly enough her best customer. We are tending constantly to bankruptcy, increasing our foreign indebtedness by exporting our national, state, and corporation bonds in exchange for [illegible] commodities. Last year, if we may accept the statement of Secretary McCulloch, we imported $180,000,000 more than we exported, including our entire production of gold. This year, down to the 4th of September, I find by the custom house statistics that our importations at New York are $171,178,039, and our exportations only $122,978,926. England taps us on the head and says, "Good boy; you are not only our favorite son, though you did tear away from the apron string, but we are ready to call you our brother, our sister, or our uncle, as you please, so long as you maintain the commercial relations now existing between us. You buy from us more than any other people. But for you our balance sheet of last year would have shown a bad exhibit. Our export trade in cotton [illegible] fell off about $5,000,000; our exports of silk goods fell off nearly $1,000,000; and but for the increase in the American demand for iron, our iron [illegible] would have fallen off in a larger degree than the [illegible]." True it is, we thus buy from her, and she buys cotton and tobacco from us for the one reason that she cannot buy them anywhere else. She buys from us nothing that she can buy from other [illegible]tions.

* * * * * * * *

In the first place she raises about eighty per cent. of her own wheat. That leaves but twenty per cent. to divide among the other nations of the world. Of that little deficit she obtains, as nearly as can be calculated from her statistics, from sixty-eight to seventy per cent. from Russia and Prussia. She obtains more largely of the little balance from [illegible] than she does from the United States. She obtains twice as much of the small remaining balance from poor, sick Turkey as she does [illegible] the [illegible] United States of America.

* * * * * * * *

I have traveled over seven of the disrupted Southern States, recently.

I learned that the rebellion and its [illegible] had rendered inevitable an entire revolution in the industries of America. No State in the Union is perhaps so directly interested in this change as Wisconsin, and yet few of your wisest and most far-seeing men [illegible] to have learned the fact. They still think as they have always thought, that the South was an agricultural country. Yet, strange to say, in connection with this belief, you think that you will still feed the people of the South. Why, gentlemen, do agricultural countries go abroad to buy food for man and beast? I thought they raised it. Yet, true it is, that before the war, the West and Northwest did feed the South. Your wheat, corn, beef, bacon and hay went southward for a market.

I do not speak specially of the productions of your own State, but of the States of the West and Northwest. You have no foreign market! France, England, Belgium, preceding the outbreak of the war, purchased—the three nations combined—but ten millions of agricultural products from the United States including wool, lumber, pork, wheat, flour and [illegible] a year. But $10,000,000! That was an adequate market for the productions of the West; and yet it was all the manufacturing nations of the world purchased. The South was your customer, and the nations lying beyond the Gulf—Mexico, South America, Central America—were your foreign markets and customers; and they swelled the $10,000,000 to about $40,000,000 a year. Your real markets lay in the South and in the cities of the East. Philadelphia, with her 800,000 people, and Pennsylvania, with her large manufacturing and mining population scattered all through her valleys, feed on Western wheat. Pennsylvania raises some, but she buys most largely of Western wheat. She raises but few cattle; she buys Western cattle and pastures them for a few months to prepare them for the market. New York, with her population of 1,600,000 people—for Brooklyn and other surrounding cities are parts of New York—make your markets. The manufacturing cities and towns of the East, with the South, were the market for the agriculturalist of the West. But henceforth you are not to feed the South.

Let me go a step farther. Hereafter you are to encounter the south in the markets of the east—in the southern part of this hemisphere and the small market open to you in Europe—you have to compete with them after they have taken the cream off. If you do not diversify your pursuits, you will soon be ready to cry to the Lord to send drought or excessive rain which may destroy crops, and enable you to sell your products. You will feel that a curse has fallen on you if this year's generous crops shall be vouchsafed next year. You may say this is strange talk to Americans. Gentlemen, I traveled between twelve and fourteen hundred miles by railroad, from New Orleans to Baltimore—between corn and cotton, cotton and corn, and if I were under oath, I could not say which I saw most of—cotton or corn. Where the land had been cultivated, and the crop was gone, the stubble of wheat remained. Where I saw other crops growing, as I did in northern North Carolina and Virginia, it was wheat—the great staple of Wisconsin. During the three days of last week I passed in St. Louis I saw corn from Mississippi and Alabama being delivered from steamers, instead of shipping thence to Mississippi and Alabama, as it used to be, and I also saw a drove that would gratify the eye of any cattle fancier, of long-horned Texas cattle, being driven through the streets of St. Louis, which looked to me amazingly like the south feeding the north for this year, at least to some extent. From Nashville they are shipping corn and wheat to Ohio, Indiana, and the Western States.

* * * * *

Sagacious Englishmen are discovering that free trade is not likely to prove so pleasant to England as they thought it would. There are thirty Prussian locomotives running over the Northwestern railroad of Great Britain. English goods are too dear for Englishmen, but we buy them, and pay the cost of transportation from Manchester to the seacoast, across the Atlantic to New York, and thence to our Western frontiers. We could do a great deal better than that if we would do as France and Belgium and Prussia do—set our own people to work upon our own vast and varied materials. You have them in great abundance. You have iron in great abundance. You have peat as cheap as coal to make it. You have the coal of Illinois and Iowa lying near to the respective boundaries of the State. You have copper, zinc, lead—all that you want is energy and enterprise, and determination to see to it, that your representatives will look to your interests, and you can build American rolling mills, such as I examined this afternoon at Bayview, in every section of your State. You can go to England, and lift out of want and pauperism the skilled workmen of that country who are hungering in poverty, and who would thank you to the latest day of their lives for making them independent workingmen, and free American citizens.

Among the disastrous [illegible] of free trade on the interests of the working people of England last year, it is reported by Sir Roderick Murchison, that in Cornwall and Devonshire three hundred copper and tin mines were closed. Three hundred mines closed in order that 70,000 tons of cheap ore might be imported from Chili and other South American States. That first had the closing of these mines on the [illegible] whose only estate was their skill and [illegible]? But [illegible] thousand of them were able to emigrate, for English wages does not enable the toiler to earn a home, or lay up money by which to carry a family to a distant country; and there are more than seven thousand, yes, three [illegible] seven thousand of them reduced to want and swelling the list of paupers, who now number more than a million in England alone. I will not talk of Ireland, and I have [illegible] of Scotland in this connection. But on the last day for last March there were dependent upon the [illegible] of England 995,000 people [illegible] and the number is steadily [illegible]. Bring these poor people here, pay their [illegible], and let them dig into your iron beds. Let them work your copper, zinc and lead mines, and you will find that your state will increase in power, and population, and wealth, and that your markets will not depend on long [illegible] of trans[illegible].

* * * * * * *

More specially than that, my fellow [illegible], I come to plead with you to [illegible] branch of agriculture. I saw, as I [illegible] through the South, not only that it was [illegible] grain and [illegible] pork and [illegible], but that it was raising little or no more sugar. [illegible] make the [illegible] and I am not [illegible] that the West will not yet make [illegible].

As [illegible] have [illegible] you [illegible] at this so sensational [illegible] But [illegible] practical suggestion if what can be [illegible] in [illegible] and Poland and Russia, in France, Prussia and Austria, can be [illegible] sent eighty millions [illegible] the Atlantic for sugar and molasses. Had the people of the Northwest listened to the warning of Dr. Schroeder, of Bloomington, [illegible] nearly [illegible] years ago, who [illegible] to [illegible] and making sugar, every dollar of that [illegible] millions would have remained in the country. You can make [illegible] sugar [illegible] in the West than the coarse sugar of Cuba can be [illegible], and can thereby add to your wheat, and hay, and oats raising power, and to your capacity to raise sheep and cattle. What has been the [illegible] of France and all the [illegible] I have [illegible] would be your experience, and [illegible] the enterprising men of Illinois.

Do you know that by devoting [illegible] land to beets one year out of [illegible] you can [illegible] more grain or hay than you can by [illegible] crop of hay or grain? You can, if you will grow the beet and manufacture [illegible]. In old land it requires for its first crop rich manure. To get a double crop of [illegible] the next year, you will require no manure; you have but to [illegible] the surface and put in the [illegible]. The [illegible] your go through the [illegible] of [illegible] and put in your [illegible], and your crop will be double, or nearly so, and in the [illegible] you will have got more than by the [illegible] crops. In the meanwhile you will [illegible], and, at ordinary [illegible] will be derived than if you had sold grain, [illegible] or hay. The beets are [illegible], the juice is [illegible] for sugar, and the pulp which remains you can buy [illegible]. It is the [illegible] a farmer sells his [illegible], he may [illegible] to purchase back such amount as he may want of the pulp to feed to his cattle and [illegible]; it [illegible] them like oil cake.

Thus this industry, [illegible] by Americans, furnishes both animal and artificial manures for its own promotion, and there is a great increase in the agricultural and cattle producing quality of the land in which the beet is cultivated.

* * * * * * * *

I believe firmly in the protective policy. I would protect every industry that cannot certainly be developed in the [illegible], and I would withdraw protection as soon as it was able and strong enough to stand. But what I am now here for is to ask that the [illegible] of the West, in common with those of all other [illegible] of the country, will [illegible] which burden our industry, giving old [illegible] England an advantage in our [illegible]. We can raise money [illegible] on our industry.

Why should we hurry to pay our debt? England did not hurry to pay hers. She [illegible] by taxing a few articles [illegible] to pay her current expenses, pay the interest on her debt, and to show that she could cut down the debt if she wanted to. We can raise [illegible] taxes on income, on banks, stamp taxes, taxes on whisky—and by adding to it that the [illegible] are [illegible]ed [applause] on tobacco, malt liquor, and one or two other articles, money enough the tariff standing as it is, to pay the interest on the debt and to meet the current expenses, and lay by a few millions annually for payment on the principal of the debt.

We have paid in the last two years over two hundred and forty millions of dollars of the principal of the debt. In other words, we have added $240,000,000 to the price of American [illegible] goods, and given foreign goods that advantage over them in the market. I come to appeal to the West and to ask that our taxes may be simplified, that industry may be relieved, and appeal to an enterprising people to bless themselves by lifting the poor, oppressed, [illegible], but skillful, and would-be industrious laboring people of Great Britain out of pauperism into the life, and light, and glory of free American republicanism.

A Democratic Contrast.—The San Francisco Examiner is the leading Democratic paper of California. The Democracy in that State having obtained the ascendency, are emboldened to express their true sentiments, and the Examiner accordingly draws the following contrast. (Herald please copy):

Lincoln and Davis were both born in the State of Kentucky about the same time. Davis received a classical education, Lincoln did not. Lincoln moved North, and Davis moved South. Lincoln studied law, Davis studied law. Lincoln went to Congress from Illinois, Davis from Mississippi. Davis soon made a national reputation, Lincoln did not. In the Mexican war, Davis poured out his blood in defending his country's flag and his country's honor; Lincoln was in Congress voting against sending supplies to the brave soldiers who carried that flag to victory. Lincoln opposed the acquisition of California, a portion of its price was Davis' blood, freely bestowed. In 1860, Davis signified his willingness to compromise our national difficulties; Lincoln did not. Lincoln obeyed the voice of one section of the country; Davis obeyed the voice of the other section. Davis' State papers have no superior; Lincoln's have no inferior. Davis is a dignified statesman; Lincoln was second only to Joe Miller for buffoonery. Lincoln's political record has been consistent ever since his vote to starve United States soldiers in Mexico. Davis' record has been equally consistent since that period.

I have always thanked God, says an old philosopher, that I was not born a woman, deeming her the bestower rather than the enjoyer of happiness—the flower crowned sacrifice offered up to the human lord of the creation.

You never know a very handsome [illegible] engaged in the "woman's rights" business—they can play the cards they already hold to better advantage.

Important Testimony by General Grant.

Washington dispatches to Chicago papers, dated 25th of November, received here by overland mail, report the publication of the testimony of General Grant, Judge Chase, Secretary Seward and others in the impeachment case, and give quite a full synopsis of Grant's testimony. We quote from the latter as follows:

I have seen the President very frequently in reference to the condition of affairs in the rebel States. When I was asked to be at a Cabinet meeting it was because some question was up in which, as General of the army, I was interested. I am not aware of any interview with the President on amnesty. I have occasionally recommended a per[illegible] for amnesty; thought myself, at that time that there was no reason why, because a person had ri[illegible] to the rank of General, he should be excl[illegible]d from amnesty, any more than one who [illegible] to [illegible] that rank. I spoke on that point. I did not see much reason for the twenty thousand dollar clause. There are the only two points that I remember to have spoken of at the time; [illegible] he, however, told him that I thought he was much nearer right on the twenty thousand dollar clause than I was. I was pr[illegible]nt when the proclamation was in the Cabinet, but my views were not asked. I never gave any opinion to the P[illegible] that it would be better at that time to [illegible] a proclamation of [illegible]al amnesty.

Question. Did you ever give your opinion to the P[illegible] that his proclamation interfered with the [illegible] and Gen. Lee?

A[illegible]. No, sir; I frequently had to [illegible] for [illegible] paroled officers, on the ground [illegible], so long as they obeyed the laws of the [illegible] from arrest and [illegible]. The President at that time occupied [illegible] viz: that they should be tried and punished. He wanted to know when the time would come that they could be punished. I told him not so long as they obeyed the laws and [illegible] with the stipulations. That was the [illegible] that I took.

Q. [illegible] Did you not also insist that it applied to the [illegible]?

A. [illegible]; it applied to every one who took the [illegible]; but that was not conveyed, except in the [illegible] of some of the leaders. I claimed that [illegible] their armies and arms they had [illegible] they [illegible]. A portion of them [illegible], but they [illegible], in con[illegible] that they were to be exempt [illegible] so long as they conformed to the [illegible] they had [illegible] and they were entitled [illegible].

Q. [illegible] that was his [illegible] still the President [illegible]

The P[illegible] at first [illegible] anxious to [illegible] was [illegible] odious, but he [illegible] got to arguing with the General as to the [illegible] of the [illegible] civil rights. [illegible] That was a matter entirely [illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] toward the South [illegible]. When he took the [illegible] against the rebels, and it [illegible] that he was restrained [illegible] faith toward those who had [illegible]. He wanted to [illegible]. He was [illegible] for the time he [illegible] [illegible] the Union party [illegible] [illegible] to do with this last [illegible] [illegible] to the [illegible] of the people on [illegible] to Washington [illegible] a new policy. Those whom he [illegible] at the time [illegible] civil rights, and he [illegible] that they should have [illegible]

[illegible] hold rightly [illegible] on this [illegible] have been no [illegible] this. This [illegible] Gen. Grant brings out very clearly [illegible] he has not even followed [illegible]

[illegible] Poor old [illegible] his own [illegible] at the head of the [illegible] as Editor; and [illegible] that [illegible] able editor," [illegible] that style. The [illegible] for parading his [illegible]. He belongs to that very [illegible] class of editors who take [illegible] in [illegible] themselves in this way. This is [illegible] journal in the [illegible] style that poor old [illegible] a thing is [illegible] or never seen in Western journals. The [illegible] is true of all the best California papers. But now and then an obscure and characterless [illegible], flaunting at its head the [illegible] of [illegible] Editor," or of [illegible] Editor,"—individuals who evidently think that the journals which they control are [illegible] solely for the purpose of setting forth [illegible] and parts before the public. It is a species of vanity which is at once [illegible] and contemptible; [illegible] it exactly [illegible] the character of poor old egotistical Beriah. It tells who "we" are, a thing which an indifferent public [illegible] did they not see the name of "B[illegible] Brown, Editor," at the head of the Herald every day.

The Spring[illegible] (M[illegible]) Republican says it is to be [illegible] characteristic in the [illegible] of the Democratic party, that with all its late [illegible] gains, it had no policy but negation and [illegible]. Its only hopes lie in popular [illegible] the faults and mistakes of the Republicans. D'Israeli, the leader of the British tory party, with which our democratic party most nearly corresponds in spirit and purpose, recently said in a great [illegible] at Edinburgh, Scotland, "It is as fall[illegible] in politics as in science to [illegible] that you can establish a party upon re[illegible] to change, for the reason that change is [illegible] in a progressive country."

The Chicago Times, the leading Democratic paper of the Northwest, makes the following [illegible]: "Wherever the negro has been tested [illegible], as a citizen, as an [illegible], as a voter, he has not failed to come up to the fullest requirements of those various positions."

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO DECEMBER 17.

Congressional.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The Post's special says: The Senate Finance Committee has reported the House's anti-contraction bill, Senator Sherman saying it had received the unanimous approbation of the committee. The Finance Committee has agreed upon a bill for funding the national debt. It authorizes the issue of six per cent. bonds, the [illegible] to be used in redeeming existing securities. These bonds are exempt from taxation. The bill creates a sinking fund for the redemption of the five-twenty bonds in currency; authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to redeem bonds bearing 4½ per cent. payable in forty years.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—In the House, Stevens asked for unanimous consent to introduce a bill from the Reconstruction Committee. The bill provides that a simple majority of the votes cast may affirm the constitutions of the Southern States; it apportions Representatives in Congress from the excluded States, and makes provision for the election of a specified number of members in each State on a general ticket, the remainder to be elected in districts. Objection was made and the bill was not read.

The Military Committee has reported a bill forbidding officers cashiered or dismissed by sentence of court martial from being restored to military service, except by reappointment, and that were confirmed by the Senate. The bill p[illegible] the House.

The Senate Joint Resolution changing the time of holding the annual election of Directors of the Union Pacific Railroad provides that the term of the present directors shall cease next March.

The House went into Committee of the Whole. A general [illegible] on the President's Message.

In the Senate Sherman reported a bill funding the national debt, the provisions of which have been previously telegraphed.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Times devotes a leading article to American finances. It thinks McCulloch's policy is simply a substitute of new evils for old ones.

STATE ITEMS.

The Unionist [illegible] that [illegible] Democrats, having the [illegible], are intending to establish a respectable paper in Salem, in view of the approaching campaign.

The Record says that wheat is selling above Salem, delivered at points on the river, at 75 to 80 cents per bushel, and a large amount remains yet undisposed of.

[illegible] Lodge No. 4, F. and A. M., Friday evening, Dec. 13, elected the following named persons officers for the ensuing year: T. H. Cox, W. M.; D. H. Murphy, S. W.; L. S. Scott, J. W.; Geo. A. Edes, Treas.; S. K. Hammer, Sec.; Wm. Phillips, Tyler.

The Eugene J[illegible] says that Mr. S[illegible] and family, [illegible] of that county, after having tried the Atlantic states for a short time, have returned to Eugene. Mr. S. says he knows of quite a number who would like to get back to Oregon, and will come as soon as they can sell out there.

The Albany A[illegible] says: On Saturday last a preliminary meeting of the Union men of Albany was held in Parrish's Hall, for the purpose of organizing a club of all who are in favor of supporting General Grant for the next President. Judge Powell was called to the chair, and F. [illegible] was appointed Secretary. A committee was appointed to [illegible] a constitution, etc., who are to [illegible] next W[illegible]day evening, at which time we hope to see a full attendance of all who intend to assist Grant to "fight it out on that line."

The Record has the following about the high water in Polk: We learn that the Dalles mail stage did not [illegible]. The roads were so bad the driver took the mail on horseback, thinking the bridges might be carried away. The bridges were all safe, and will probably [illegible] the tide, as the waters are diminishing. A gentleman from Nesmith's informs us that the Rickreal rose over the bridge, for several days the water had [illegible] deep in the part of the road to the D[illegible] lane.

We see by the [illegible], says the Albany [illegible], that the friends of the "lost [illegible]" are to hold [illegible] at the Court House on Saturday evening next, for the purpose of organizing a club. They say "[illegible] at stake"—that is, to bring wool down to eight cents, and labor to half a dollar a day! And of course, they will [illegible] "internal improvements by the General Government." Orig[illegible] would get rich or sick of Democratic principles if she got a full dose of [illegible]

The "[illegible]"

General Sheridan in a late response to a party who had [illegible] him a public reception remarked that "rebellion is a crime." This doctrine being extremely un-Democratic, gives Brick Pomeroy an opportunity to speak, and accordingly he sets forth the genuine Democratic doctrines as follows:

"Rebellion a crime." Liar in your throat, Phil. Sheridan! Every hour justifies the acts of those who, from Bull Run to Richmond, through four years of battle and blood, sacrifices and struggles, labored, suffered, fought, died for the cause of civil freedom. Every passing day proves the [illegible] of their judgment, the wisdom of those who [illegible]. Every revolving year [illegible] the "lost cause" more sacred to the lovers of liberty, dearer to the hearts of those who were faithful to it from its inception to its temporary fall."

This, be it known, is from the paper which boasts of the widest circulation of any "Democratic" journal in the United States. It circulates very largely in Oregon, and we are informed that more than one hundred copies of it are taken by the "true Democracy" of Portland, and an equal number by the [illegible] party at Jacksonville. The Copperhead papers published here do not talk quite so plainly as this, but they refrain only because they fear the direct avowal of their principles would frighten away a class whose votes they hope to catch next June. But the fact that the paper from which the above extract is taken is circulated in such numbers here shows plainly enough that it is a true exponent of Democratic doctrine. The San Francisco Chronicle has the following just remarks on this class of papers:

What does a writer of the Brick Pomeroy school care for truth, justice, law or decency, when a political opponent is to be assailed? In fact, editors of this class are for the most part so [illegible] with such a class of readers that they are not able to [illegible], but are free to [illegible] their brutal [illegible], without any fear that they will excite disgust or disapproval. They are as frank and [illegible] in their ribaldries as participants in a drunken orgie at a rendezvous of thieves, and feel under no more necessity of making their lies look plausible, or of giving their attacks on opponents the [illegible] of propriety, than a feeder of swine would, of [illegible] the contents of his swill-barrel in such a manner as not to [illegible] the [illegible] or [illegible] the appetites of his charge. The humiliating fact is, that the human swine to whom such papers as the La Crosse Democrat deal out their political swill, do not [illegible] to relish it unless it is strongly flavored with elements that provoke horror and disgust in decent men. The paper just named virtually predicted President Lincoln's assassination, and virtually demanded it. It justified that awful crime in advance; and not only justified, but exulted over it after it had been perpetrated. It is now denouncing the national debt as "an atrocious swindle," and arguing in favor of repudiation. It recently apostrophized General as "liar in your throat, Phil. Sheridan," because he had alluded to the rebellion as a crime. And this style of political argument has many warm admirers in the United States, for Pomeroy's paper has a large circulation, and he himself has many imitators. We regret to say that he has a [illegible] even in this State. It is but a few days since we saw in an interior paper an attack on the murdered President and his mother, which was as shocking a specimen of grossness and unprovoked malignity as even the [illegible] "Brick" could have devised. But after all, it must be admitted that the disgrace of this ignoble sort of journalism does not rest entirely upon the editors who are engaged in it. If there were not a class who like the article, there would be no encouragement to produce it. The demand regulates the suppply. If coarse ribaldry, ruffianly brutality, and reckless mendacity were as disgusting to the general community of readers as they are to persons of good taste and right feeling, a man would rather be known as a thief or a pander, than as the editor of one of those vile and hateful sheets.

DEBASEMENT OF DEMOCRATIC JOURNALISM.—The following is from the Unionist. It needs no introduction to make it understood in this community:

We [illegible] with some astonishment, that in the discussion of ordinary political questions with the OREGONIAN, the editor of the Herald makes frequent use of the term "liar," and other offensive epithets, which are quite new in his vocabulary. It would seem that notwithstanding the great haste of his migration, that individual provided himself with the skin of a California lion, for the purpose of terrifying contumacious web-feet; as we do not recollect that in his disastrous conflicts with the redoubtable McCarthy, of the Flag, he ever indulged that peculiarity of language. However that may be, we are intending to draw public attention to the distinctive character of the Democratic newspapers in this State. If the Herald, being the acknowledged leader of the party press, and issuing from one of the most refined communities, indulge in language so coarse, vulgar and insufferable, what blackguard atrocity may not be expected from the dirty-faced little sheets that drag in the rear of copperhead journalism? We are now addressing respectable Democrats, as citizens and men: Is it not actually alarming that the principles of your party are maintained solely by a class of [illegible] who cannot preserve ordinary decorum of language, and who would not be suffered to infest a Republican printing office five minutes? What must be the depraved condition of a popular appetite which does not revolt at such disgusting eructions? And how does it happen that you cannot or do not obtain men of ability and refinement to take charge of and conduct the journals of your party?

It must be obvious to enlightened Democrats, that a public press so debased and vicious will have a demoralizing effect on the minds of their children, and be offensive to the more delicate membership of their families. Hence, we are forced to the conclusion that nothing but such pestilent stuff will gratify the coarse appetites of their party, and that none but the offscourings of creation can be employed to produce it.

DESERVING OF CONFIDENCE.—There is no article which so richly deserves the entire confidence of the community as "Brown's Bronchial Troches." The Troches have received flattering commendations from the most celebrated Clergymen, Lawyers and Public Speakers, who speak from personal experience. Those suffering from Asthmatic and Bronchial Diseases, Coughs and Colds, should try the Troches.

RECREATION AND AMUSEMENT.—It is necessary that mortals should have some amusement, and since our city is not blessed with an elegant theatre, or some place of innocent amusement, it is the duty of every man to see that his acquaintances coming to our city should at least be pleased, and how can you please them better than by taking them to KOHN & FISHEL'S, No. 91 Front street, to buy one of those handsome suits they keep for sale.

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched in India ink—painted in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

I herewith issue my Annual PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
K[illegible] up the good custom established of yore
I bid you all welcome! I wish you good cheer!
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year, as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front [illegible] the [illegible] Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget—'twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim.
I've Musical Work Boxes and Guitars for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my B[illegible] includes the finest new Toys,
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys!
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all [illegible] from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Omnipotent wrist!)
I've Babies of Rubber, of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order), and well put together;
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilt outside,
And little Cock Horses for Bobbies to ride;
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the reason they hold neither wadding or load.
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Orizaba or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new Locomotive—it can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad,
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old "1" or new "4."
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Fusileers,
Soldiers that look like E. B. Pioneers.
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell.
I've Marbles of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops, galore,
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a thousand Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

{L. S.} Given at my Palace in Wonderland, this 30th day of the eleventh month, being the first year of the reign of George the Third in Webfoot.

The Dilemma

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

Now, by the blessed Paphian queen,
Who heaves the breast of sweet sixteen;
By every name I cut on bark
Before my morning star grew dark,
By Hymen's torch, by Cupid's dart,
By all that thrills the beating heart;
The bright black eye, the melting blue—
I cannot choose between the two.

I had a vision in my dream;—
I saw a row of twenty beams;
From every beam a rope was hung,
In every rope a lover swung;
I asked the hue of every eye
That bade each luckless lover die;
Ten shadowy lips said heavenly blue,
And ten accused the darker hue.

I asked a matron which she deemed
With fairest light of beauty beamed;
She answered, some thought both were fair,—
Give her blue eyes and golden hair.
I might have liked her judgment well,
But as she spoke she rang a bell,
And all her girls, nor small nor few,
Came marching in—their eyes were blue.

I asked a maiden; back she flung
The locks that round her forehead hung,
And turned her eye, a glorious one,
Bright as a diamond in the sun,
On me, until beneath its rays
I felt as if my hair would blaze;
She liked all eyes but eyes of green;
She looked at me; what could she mean?

Ah! many lids love lurks between—
Nor h[illegible] in the coloring of his screen;
And when his random arrows fly,
The victim falls, but knows not why.
Gaze not upon his shield of jet,
The shaft upon the string is set;
Look not beneath his azure veil,
Though every limb were cased in mail.

Well, both might make a martyr break
The chain that bound him to the stake;
And both, with but a single ray,
Can melt our very hearts away;
And both, when balanced, hardly seem
To stir the scales, or rock the beam;
But that is dearest all the while,
That wears for us the sweetest smile.

Champagne.

It was at Mareuil-sur-Ay, the headquarters of the well known house of M. Bouchy, Fils & Co., that I first went into the fields and saw the vintagers gathering the grapes; and it was under the polite guidance of M. Bouchy himself, that our party were invited to pluck and eat. To my surprise, I found the champagne grape to be dark blue in color, instead of white, as I had supposed, and but little larger than a good sized berry. Its pulp is white, however, and it has a luscious sweetness which makes it most delightful to the taste. Here and there a bunch of white ones would appear, but these were rare, and our host told us that they were the least esteemed. In one of the champagne provinces, however, white grapes prevail, while at Vertus they are mostly red. The [illegible] manufacturers, nevertheless, buy from all the districts, and then make a general wine from a blending of all descriptions of fruit; and it is by the judicious union of these vintages, as much as anything else that the different [illegible] a peculiarity for their respective wines.

The grapes are taken from the vines by the vintagers with [illegible] knives, and turned into large baskets, in which they are carried to the press. The [illegible] are left upon the stem, but before going to the press they are carefully looked over and the [illegible] or blemished fruit separated from the [illegible]. The vines stand about two and a half to three feet [illegible], and as they are tied to upright sticks, a vineyard has somewhat the appearance of a [illegible] field at a little distance. The soil in which these vines are cultivated is most wretched in appearance, being composed entirely of chalk and [illegible], from which it does not seem possible [illegible] could spring. It is fit for no crop but the one it bears. In fact, the chalk [illegible] where this peculiar soil prevails, was known in the earlier times, before champagne wine had attained any fame in the world, by the opprobrious epithet of "lousy beggarly champagne." Now, however, it leads all the provinces of France in the value of its product; a product, which [illegible] in a late copy of the London Times, at fifty millions of gallons a year. —Paris Cor. Wilkes' Spirit.

BUDDHISM.—As the Hindoo is the most ancient of religions, so the Buddhist is the one which is professed by the largest portion of the human race. It is the religion of Burmah, Ceylon, China, Siam, Thibet, and [illegible], and is [illegible] as many as 350,000,000 among its votaries. "Gautama," or "Sakya Muni," its founder, [illegible] in Bengal about the seventh century before Christ. Yet India at present contains no [illegible] temples of its worship, and [illegible] India, that [illegible] ever met, [illegible] of its [illegible] even acquainted with the term "Buddha," or "Buddhist." [illegible] are most curious of those that [illegible], and [illegible] even now to be [illegible] understood in all their ramifications. [illegible] original Buddhism, there is no Creator, nor [illegible] that is self-existent and [illegible]. The [illegible] object is the attainment, in this life, of [illegible] abstraction from all worldly [illegible] and [illegible] and the ultimate result, of [illegible]. Like the Hindoo, the Buddhist believes in the transmigration of souls, and until [illegible] annihilation is reached, he is doomed to shift his earthly tenement, from form to form, according to the deeds done in the flesh. It is, [illegible] the great object of all beings, who would be freed from the sorrows of successive births, to seek the destruction of the moral cause of [illegible], that is, cleaving to existing [illegible] life. It is only possible to accomplish this end by attending to a [illegible] and by fixing the mind upon the perfections of Buddha. Those who after [illegible] births have entirely destroyed all evil desires are [illegible] "Rahats," and after death the Rahat attains "Nirwana," or ceases to exist. The [illegible] of the word "Rahat," is "Tranquillity," and it appears to be the same word which is used on a [illegible] scale, to express the [illegible] qualities of that far-famed Eastern sweetmeat, the "Rahat lakoum" or "Morsels of tranquillity."

Dickens in Boston.

A Boston letter of the 20th Nov. [illegible] gives the following:

The Hub is in its glory to-day. Mr. Dickens arrived here last night, and was immediately taken possession of by a self-appointed committee of [illegible] and [illegible] to the Parker House, where rooms had been engaged for him. The hour of his arrival was so late that no demonstrations were made, but the [illegible] making amends for it to-day. All the tickets for Mr. Dickens's course of readings in Boston, amounting to 3,000, were disposed of on Monday, the crowd of purchasers beginning to throng the door of the sellers as early as sunrise in the morning. Precautions were taken to prevent any of these tickets from falling into the hands of speculators, but, nevertheless, many did and [illegible] sold at $20 each. The people of Toronto, Canada, have been trying to prevail upon Mr. Dickens to extend his visit to that city, but have received an unfavorable reply from his agent, who said that the readings would probably be confined to a few of the chief cities of the United States. One thousand dollars in gold is understood to be his price for each reading. It is not a little singular that the first ill-natured word —outside of [illegible] newspapers—that has been [illegible] Mr. Dickens's visit to America should have come from an English author. That word was uttered by Capt. Mayne Reid, who, on being asked the other day, at Newport, why he didn't also get up readings in imitation of the author of Martin Chuzzlewit, replied indignantly, "I hope you will do me the honor to believe that I have come to America for a higher purpose than to make exhibition of myself as a literary showman."

FUN AS A PROFESSION.—The business of making people laugh is no joke. Yoricks, whose specialty it is to set the table in a roar, are generally, when off duty, a chop-fallen tribe. Writers who produce [illegible] for the humorous papers are, in at least three cases out of five, gloomy and taciturn. Comic actors, as a class, have always been notorious for their melancholy bearing behind the scenes. Liston, the English comedian, the expression of whose face, even in repose was so ludicrous that it provoked shouts of laughter, was one of the most confirmed hypochondriacs of his day: and "Billy Williams," for years the leading representatives of broad farce in this country, used to blubber like a whipped schoolboy whenever anything went wrong with him. When Dominique, the French farceur, was convulsing all Paris with his drolleries, a physician of that city was one day visited by a miserable looking man, who asked what he should do to get rid of a horrid desire to commit suicide which continually haunted him. "Go and see Dominique," said the doctor. "Alas!" replied the unfortunate wretch, "I am Dominique." Forced humor is indeed a sorry business. There is a reconstructionary principle in human nature which renders depression the inevitable consequent of overstrained merriment. The philosophy of all this is, that although wit and humor are cheerful faculties when suffered to develop themselves spontaneously, they are quite the reverse when compelled to drudge. In fact, no one faculty can be overworked except at the expense of all the others. To keep the body in a healthy, vigorous, elastic condition, all its attributes must be properly exercised. It is the same with the minds.

As the quickest way to make a fortune a contemporary suggests marrying a fashionable young lady and selling her clothes.

Heliotypography.

The following article from the New York Journal of Commerce records one of the most remarkable discoveries of modern science—a discovery of more importance than that of Daguerre, and of which the practical uses are almost limitless:

"HELIOTYPOGRAPHY.—Here is a new word added to the vocabulary of the necessities of this advancing age and the discoveries of modern science. Ever since the discovery of the Daguerre process it has been an object of earnest pursuit to find a method of photographic art for the production of metallic type by which to print, in the ordinary letter press style, the pictures made by the sun. Scores of inventions have been made without final success. We are at length able to say that the desideratum has been accomplished, and the Heliotype company are preparing to work with the aid of the sun as rapidly as publishers can desire in the production of suntypes. It is not claimed for this process as yet that it will do everything. But it is the beginning of great things, and we confidently look for the day when it will be so perfected that the scenes of daily life, occurrences in our streets, public meetings, processions and similar events may be photographed, and the type used in the editions of illustrated newspapers without the intervention of an engraver or wood-cutter.

At present the inventors wisely propose to do no more for the public than they can do perfectly. To show what their ability is we may state the results of our own examination. A copper-plate map of France, for example was handed to them, from which they were to produce a type or plate suited for letter press work. Within twelve hours they delivered the type, a solid plate, from which they could easily print one hundred thousand copies on the press of the Journal of Commerce. The copy printed from this type was fully equal in every respect to the original, and an exact fac simile of it. An elegantly designed ornamental card, with fanciful letters, made by the hand of a skillful artist, being placed in their hands, they, in a few hours, produced a type from which the card can be printed to any extent desired. An ordinary wood engraving is reproduced in the same manner. Music is admirably and perfectly copied. One of the merits of the invention consists in the ability to change the size of the picture or page to be reproduced. Thus music of the ordinary piano size can in a few hours be reprinted in small quarto, octavo, or any other desired size. A map six feet square can be reduced and the type made to print an illustration for an ordinary volume. We have now before us specimens of reproductions of Dore's Bible illustrations, which are astonishly perfect. More marvelous skill is a page of the London Illustrated News reproduced in a few hours in a metal plate half the original size, engravings and letter-press alike a reduced fac simile of the original, the proofs from which will surprise any printer. There is no reasonable doubt that the process will be so perfected that it would be easy to republish in this country any European illustrated newspaper within twenty-four hours after its receipt by steamer.

We have been careful not to claim too much for this invention in its present working condition. The company can do all kinds of map work, outlines and plans of artists and engineers, many styles of engravings, especially those who deal in sharp outlines and bold vigorous work, music and many other kinds of illustration. They may already do much more, but this is enough to justify our assertion that heliotypography is a necessary word in the language.

In one department the company has achieved a startling triumph, namely, in the reproduction of rare old tracts and books. Many gentlemen having such treasures in their libraries desire to print private editions for their friends. By this process the type for such editions is furnished in absolute fac simile of the original, and the new edition can only be distinguished from the old by the paper on which it is printed. We make sure that the publishers, type founders, map makers, civil engineers, and all who are interested in such an important advance in art, will visit the Heliotype company and investigate for themselves its ability to do their work."

OUTWITTED.—An old gentleman over seventy-five years of age, sends us the following for publication:

Once there was a Yankee who was in the habit of using rum and tobacco very freely. One day he got out of rum and tobacco, and called on his neighbor, the merchant, to get some. The merchant would not let him have any. He then called on the Devil:

"Here I am," said Satan, "what is your wish?"

"I wish," said the Yankee, "to make a bargain with you."

"All right," said Satan, "what are your conditions?"

"They are simple," said the Yank.

"If you will give me three wishes, I will give you my soul."

"Good," said Satan, "you shall have your wishes. What is your first wish?"

"I wish," said the Yankee, "you would give me a gallon of good West India rum."

"Here it is," said Satan, "what is your second wish?"

"I wish you would give me two pounds of the very best old Virginia smoking tobacco."

The Devil gave that also, and asked for the third wish.

"When I die," said Yank, "I wish you would give me a pass to Heaven."

"Ah!" said Satan, "I cannot send you to Heaven. You Yankees are to sharp for me to trade with. Give back my rum and tobacco."

"No," said the Yankee, "you have forfeited the first two conditions. You said it was a bargain and I shall hold you to it."

"Well," said the Devil, "a gallon of rum and two pounds of tobacco is no great loss, but you will never catch me trading with a Yank again. I have traded with men from all parts of the earth and never got cheated before. I wonder from what dark corner on earth this damned Yankee came from. I must put the curse out of the way or he will soon out-wit and dethrone me."

THE TOWER OF BABEL.—A late traveler says "After a ride of nine miles, we were at the foot of the Birs Nimroud. Our horses' feet were trampling upon the remains of Babylon, which showed here and there the [illegible] dust and rubbish of ages. Before our eyes uprose a great mound of earth, barren and bare. This was Birs Nimrood, the ruins of the tower of Beblo, by which the first builders of earth had vainly hoped to scale high heaven. Here also, it was that Nebuchadnezzar built, for bricks, bearing his name, have been found in the ruins. At the top of the mound a great mass of brick work [illegible] the accumulated soil. With your finger you touch the very bricks —large, square shaped and massive—that were "thoroughly" burned; the very mortar, the 'slime'' now hard as granite, handled more than four thousand years ago by earth's impious people.

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURchased the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE," of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, W. T., on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs [illegible] fully treated.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system; Look at their pallid, [illegible] and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies so that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his [illegible] study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases with [illegible] mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing [illegible] in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the [illegible] by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

[illegible] the consequence of [illegible]. This [illegible] vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, [illegible] the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: sallow countenance, dark spots before the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, [illegible] like the [illegible] of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion of ideas, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, [illegible] a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, [illegible] pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific [illegible] of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering from any of these fearful maladies, [illegible] not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing [illegible] incident to females, treated with eminent success. Such as Suppression, Irregularities, Whites, Falling of the Womb, Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation, Barrenness, etc., will be speedily cured, without poisonous drugs, injurious or unpalatable medicines of any kind. Have no [illegible] in calling, no difference what your trouble may be. The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves.

Persons calling at Dr. Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his assurances of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and no more than to be charged with, a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases, rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to [illegible] radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 852.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 852 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

REDINGTON & CO'S

ESSENCE OF

JAMAICA GINGER

This valuable preparation, containing, in a highly concentrated form, all the properties of the Jamaica Ginger, has become one of the most popular domestic remedies for all diseases of the stomach and digestive organs.

As a tonic, it will be found invaluable to all persons recovering from debility, whether produced by fever or otherwise, for, while it imparts to the system all the glow and vigor that can be produced by wine or brandy, it is entirely free from the reactionary effects that follow the use of spirits of any kind.

It is also an excellent remedy for females who suffer from difficult menstruration, giving almost immediate relief to the spasms that so frequently accompany that period.

It gives immediate relief to Nausea, caused by riding in a railroad car, or by sea sickness, or other causes. It is also valuable as an external application for Gout, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, etc.

Sold by Druggists everywhere, and at wholesale by REDINGTON & CO., Agents for the Pacific Coast, San Francisco. je24d7m4p
